Student projects in service of the larger community

Several MCRP courses go beyond the theoretical and apply student knowledge to real-world projects: problems that need solving in Metro Vancouver.

In MCRP’s Planning Studio, students partner with local community, municipal, and private-sector organizations to identify problems and prepare formal proposals feasible solutions. SCARP MCRP’s most recent final presentations introduced for consideration the following proposals in service to their respective partner organizations:

- “Somewhere to Go: Exploring Day Programming & Service Models for Unsheltered Community Members in Burnaby”
- “Aligning Process and Vision; Accelerating Affordable Housing”
- “A New Perspective on Business Enterprise Districts”
- “Streets for Everyone: Making Space for Active Transportation on Granville Island”
- “Placemaking: Creating a Hub for the Black Community in Vancouver”
- “Rutland Reimagined: A Pathway to a Complete Community”
- “Transit-Oriented: New Developments in Metro Vancouver”
- “Cultivating Connections at Cəlīsələm”
- “Resilience Redefined: Developing Roadmaps to Innovative Emergency Management Tools for UBC”
